International Handbook of Interpretation in Educational Research Paul Smeyers, David Bridges, Nicholas C. Burbules, Morwenna Griffiths, 2015-01-06 This handbook focuses on the often neglected dimension of interpretation in educational research It argues that all educational research is in some sense interpretive and that understanding this issue belies some usual dualisms of thought and practice such as the sharp dichotomy between qualitative and quantitative research Interpretation extends from the very framing of the research task through the sources which constitute the data the process of their recording representation and analysis to the way in which the research is finally or provisionally presented The thesis of the handbook is that interpretation cuts across the fields both philosophically organizationally and methodologically By covering a comprehensive range of research approaches and methodologies the handbook gives early career researchers what they need to know in order to decide what particular methods can offer for various educational research contexts fields An extensive overview includes concrete examples of different kinds of research not limited for example to teaching and learning examples as present in the Anglo Saxon tradition but including as well what in the German Continental tradition is labelled pädagogisch examples from child rearing and other contexts of non formal education with full description and explanation of why these were chosen in particular circumstances and reflection on the wisdom or otherwise of the choice combined in each case with consideration of the role of interpretation in the process The handbook includes examples of a large number of methods traditionally classified as qualitative interpretive and quantitative used across the area of the study of education Examples are drawn from across the globe thus exemplifying the different opportunities and constraints that educational research has to confront in different societies Break the Lies that Bind Jay F Davis, 1994 Library Media Connection , 2003 Multiliteracies in the Foreign Language Classroom. Using Video Games in the FLC Isabelle Humburg, 2015-03-10 Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Pedagogy Literature Studies grade 1 7 Justus Liebig University Giessen course Multiliteracies in the Foreign Language Classroom language English abstract According to a survey published in 2013 nearly every youth spends roughly 180 minutes online every day during the school week MPFS 2013 64 Of the asked adolescents 45% said that they play computer console or online games regularly and gave the estimate of 76 minutes on weekdays and 101 minutes on weekends MPFS 2013 65 spend playing digital games There is a term for all those born after the 1970s that grew up surrounded and using technology on a daily basis digital natives Schoolnet 2009 6 This new generation of born natives uses digital devices with little to no instruction One could say they are fluent or literate in this language These digital natives use this technology based language to communicate express themselves as well as to understand and manipulate their environment They use social networking sites as well as digital games often combined with each other to entertain themselves Through their constant use digital natives are used to an environment which constantly rewards them for things like endurance daily log in rewards or finishing things in a timely matter finishing in a quest in a certain time frame This kind of reward system is what they expect in the classroom A traditional classroom environment may not be motivating enough for this new generation of learners Schoolnet 2009 6 This term paper deals with digital games in the English foreign language classroom EFL As students clearly enjoy playing these games and are motivated to do so on a nearly daily basis why not use this kind of motivation to learn English In the following the theory behind the usage and advantage of digital games in the classroom is outlined In the end there is a teaching proposal for a unit that uses an online game to teach historical facts and events
